A Merry Christmas

For the thirty-eighth time the Times wishes its readers a very merry Christmas. It is not often that the same editor may have the pleasure of extending the holiday greetings for thirty-eight times consecutively through the same medium, and as he cuts his turkey and pie with his dear ones many miles away, his heart will be with his dear old friends in Englewood with whom he has lived so long and happily.

This is the season that we may forget all the past frictions and unpleasantness of the year, and under the same guiding star that heralded the birth of the Savior of men two thousand years ago, we may open our hearts and welcome the glow of gladness with which the shepherds of old heard the gladsome song of the angel heralds singing, "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men."

Our nation, our city, and even our neighborhood has good reason to rejoice in the peace and plenty that is with us, and on this coming Christmas day let us all rejoice and show our appreciation of all the good things we are showered with by extending to all of our brethren the good will we enjoy.

Chicago has made a record for safety, passing ten days without the injury to a child by autos.

Although nearly a week ahead, we wish our readers a very Merry Christmas.

The holiday vacation of the schools begins today and will last two weeks.

Sunday will be the shortest day in the year, and the daylight will increase each day thereafter.

All of the young folks are home for the holidays and society is in full blast with parties and receptions this week.

"There Should Be a Law to—"

The greatest mistake of the day is to imagine that by enacting a law, abuses may be corrected. Every hour of the day we hear, "There should be a law compelling" this or that, when it is very likely the statute books already hold a dozen on the same subject. Enacting a law does no good, it is the enforcement that counts. There is no country on the face of the globe that has more or better laws than the good old U. S. A., and we venture to say there are none who have less enforced. Crime could be reduced one half by enforcing our vagrancy laws, and compelling all questionable characters to prove their means of livelihood, and provide work for the deserving unemployed. Enforce the laws against carrying weapons and the sale of the same, and elect to the bench Judges who have backbone enough to compel a compliance with existing laws. There is no use cumbering the national or state statute books with more useless laws, just enforce those good ones we have, and there will be a wonderful change in the criminal courts.

Lack of Co-ordination to Prevent Crime

Mayor Dever is right when he says, "If all the powers would coordinate, the national, state, county and city, they could stop crime in forty-eight hours." As at present the national machinery of justice seems to be pulling along different lines from the state and county, and all are in conflict with the local police. This may be politics, or it may be jealousy, but in either or any case, it is the people who pay the bills and suffer from the unusual saturnalia of crime which now seems to afflict our good city and county. Why cannot we have the "team work" we had during the World's War? Every force, every element worked together then, and the result was stupendous success. If the police now make it too warm for the bootlegging and vicious element, they simply move outside of the city limits, or even down the state a few miles, and if pursued too close, they hop over into Indiana or Michigan, or some point convenient to the city and where they may be within serving distance. Every authority blames the other for the serious conditions of affairs, yet they will not get together or cooperate. The criminal element are quick to take advantage of this and as a result the crime wave continues and is augmented by outside influences. The country simply wants to have the lawless suppressed, and they do not care by whom, just so it is suppressed, so they demand coordination of all the powers, and their demands should be obeyed.

Fur Facts

The Lynx
By Harry Himmel

There are a number of species of lynx. But all of them are distinguished by the thin line of black hair, which ornaments the tips of their ears, and by the long fringe of hair, black at the base and white at the ends, that surround their faces. They all have very short tails, and their skins are usually more or less spotted.

The American lynx is plentiful in all parts of British North America, except in Labrador, where the skins are of superior quality, but where the animal is comparatively scarce. Minnesota seems to be the southern limit in the east, but the lynx is found sometimes as far south as the Adirondacks. Its range on the western territory is from Alaska to California.

The skins from Nova Scotia and the eastern part of the Hudson Bay country closely resemble those of the Norway lynxes of Europe, which are distinguished by their fine beautiful fur. The Californian and northwestern varieties, while stronger in fur, are coarser and redder than those of Nova Scotia skins. The Alaska skins have a very rich, soft, thick fur, but are very pale in color.

The American or Canadian lynx is two feet high, and from three to four feet in length, including the five-foot tail. The hind legs are much longer than the front legs, and the claws, which are quite sharp and easily withdrawn, are well concealed in the thick foot pads. Its winter pelt consists of a coat of thick, soft fur, about one inch long on the back and intermixed with long, silvery hairs. The undercoat in some rare instances drab, or blue or yellow, is generally of a light reddish color on the surface. The ground color of the underhair is invariably a grayish blue. The belly fur is always finer and longer than the fur on the back, often showing light spots through the long, silky hairs. The fur is always thicker and richer on the animals of the darker colors. In summer the lynx loses most of its beautiful fur, and its main covering is coarse, brownish-red hair.

The lynx is a shy animal. Its habitat is the deep forests and in country overgrown with second growth. It preys on birds, hares and other small mammals, sometimes attacking young fawns and lambs. It is reported that the lynx is a good swimmer. Its ordinary gait is a long gallop, similar to that of the hare. When it leaps over ground with its back arched it presents a rather awkward and peculiar position.

The lynx is hunted for its valuable skin. The hunter either follows its track in the snow or hunts it with dogs, trained to follow the trail till the animal is treed. The lair of the lynx is usually placed among rocks. The young ones are born blind and from two to three cubs are found in a litter.

The lynx has always been a very smart trimming on fur coats and also on cloth coats. The writer has just received a "tip" that the lynx dyed black is going to be a very popular trimming for the next year.

Platoon System Postponed

Establishment of the platoon system in the Chicago elementary schools has been definitely postponed for at least another school year, it was learned today.

The postponement, the second since the approval of the new system by the board of education last spring, according to reliable sources, was occasioned by the hostility of the teachers and the attitude of the principals, as well as a desire on the part of Supt. McAndrew to give the subject further study.

How Much Milk Do You Use Each Day?

Here is what Bernarr MacFadden, famous health authority, says about this important subject in The Miracle of Milk: "I am willing to go on record as stating . . . ninety per cent of all malnutrition among children everywhere could be cured if two quarts of milk a day were supplied each child.

"I heartily agree with Dr. Graham Lusk when he states that no family of five can afford to purchase a pound of meat until it has first bought at least three quarts of milk."

A Christmas Hymn

By Felicia D. Hemans

O lovely voices of the sky,
That hymned the Saviour's birth!
Are ye not singing still on high,
Ye that sang 'Peace on Earth'?
To us yet speak the strains
Wherewith in days gone by
Ye blessed the Syrian swains,
O voices of the sky!

O clear and shining light, whose beams
A heavenly glory shed
Around the palms, and o'er the streams,
And on the shepherd's head!
Be near through life and death,
As in that holiest night
Of hope, and joy, and faith,
O clear and shining light!

O star which led to Him, whose love
Brought hope and mercy free!
Where art thou? 'Mid the host above
May we still gaze on thee?
In heaven thou are not set,
Thy rays earth might not dim;
Send them to guide us yet,
O star which led to Him!

The Christmas Spirit

What a tribute is now being paid to the Man of Galilee! We have for years been celebrating the birthday of Lincoln, for example, and Lincoln was one of the outstanding characters of American history. Nevertheless we pay far greater tribute to the memory of Christ and to His services to mankind than we do to the name and services of the honored and revered Lincoln.

It is entirely proper that we do honor to the name of Christ more than to that of any other character, for He is the central figure of all time. All races now respect Christ's name regardless of their views about the divinity of the Man of Galilee, because He gave to the world the highest and noblest code of morals that humanity has ever known.

We need the Christ spirit and that spirit is now being evinced more than ever before.—H. J. C.

After Effects of the Loeb-Leopold Trial

Four more youthful murderers, all of whom pleaded guilty, or at least confessed that they while robbing a woman gagged her in such a way that she died of strangulation, were acquitted by a spineless jury last week. The youths when arrested said they were sure they would get off as did the other youthful self-confessed murderers, "because they were so young." The officials, from the police to the judge, did their full duty in both cases, but the jury, inspired by the Clarence Darrow brand of human kindness, which he uses to such a lucrative advantage, sent the four young criminals out to prey upon the public again. As pointed out in these columns when Loeb and Leopold were let off so easy, that precedent was the most harmful that has ever been established, and is even now causing an indifference and bravado among the criminally inclined that the innocent are paying for dearly. It is openly asserted that one may commit any crime if they are young, and with a good lawyer and a sentimental jury they will go unpunished. The scene in the courtroom after the acquittal was rather one of commendation than condemnation, and the morbid court attendants fell all over themselves in congratulating the cold-blooded young murderers. Our well organized police force, prosecutions and even courts are of no use so long as such a sentiment exists among the people from whom the jury must be drawn. The criminals of today are all youthful, and they go about their dastardly deeds with a sang froid and indifference that is appalling, all the result of the well founded idea that they are too young to be punished.

Men's Gymnasium

Big Wrestling Meet at Hamilton Friday, December 19

There will be a dual meet between the grapplers of Hamilton Park and the Varsity Wrestling team of the University of Chicago. Hamilton Park has a strong wrestling team this year, perhaps stronger than ever before. Coach Baker is rapidly getting his men into shape and expects to make the Chicago mat men hustle in order to win. Wrestlers from Grand Crossing Park will also compete in the meet. There will probably be a man in each weight from all three teams and a big night is planned for all.

The first bout will take place at 8 o'clock as now planned. The meet will be an entirely stagg affair, no ladies being allowed.

The Fellowship House from Halsted sent their 115-pound team up to Hamilton last Saturday and were sent away on the short end of a 63 to 5 score. The game was entirely one-sided and fast. The substitutes of the Hamilton team played the entire game and showed up very promisingly.

Any men who wish to try out for the wrestling team should see the instructor at once. Periods for practice has been set for three times per week.

"Step Lively Girls" at the National

Harry Bentley, featured principal comedian with "Step Lively Girls," the big Mutual burlesque show coming to the National theatre for a week's engagement commencing Sunday, December 14th, caught his first glimpse of life behind the footlights while following the exciting life of "candy butcher" in Carr's Unique theatre in Brooklyn. He declares that he mastered the art of making correct change for customers before he graduated from the grammar schools of the City of Churches. Like many another lad who viewed many performances and saw the work of various comedians, Harry became proficient in mimicry, and one afternoon when the principal comedian of a company playing at the Unique failed to appear for the performance, the youthful dispenser of sweetmeats bravely volunteered to play the part. He was so successful that he continued in the role the balance of the season, and soon established an individuality all his own. Mr. Bentley modestly confesses that it is his ambition to be the best comedian on the Mutual circuit, and own hs own show. His wide popularity and present part ownership "Step Lively Girls" would seem to indicate that he is well on his way toward his goal.

"The Modern Venus With Bashful Babies"

When the "Bashful Babies" come to the National commencing Sunday, December 21, theater-goers of this city are going to be given a treat. This is another Mutual Circuit attraction, which is presenting real burlesque to its patrons this season.

George Carroll and Bob Nugent, the two well known comedians who are heading a long list of artists with the "Bashful Babies," have by close application and persistent determination to excel, reached the highest round of the ladder of fame in their chosen profession and are acknowledged two of the leading performers on the circuit.

"A Day at Newport" is the presentation of the "Bashful Babies" Company and assisting Carroll and Nugent are several of the leading lights of burlesque, including Viola Elliott, the girl with the perfect form, Ethel Bartlett, Sue Milford, Larry Frances, Harry Rose and May Evans.

As to production, Joe Perry, the producer of "Bashful Babies," has reached the last word. His scenic and electrical effects are simply marvellous and the costuming has caused the leading modistes of the country to remark that it is without doubt the most gorgeous that has been on the stage in years.

Englewooder Wins "A Hole In One"

Mr. T. R. Morony, the realtor and insurance expert, shot a "hole in one" at Oak Hills recently, and a few of his friends foregathered at Mr. James Donovan's, on 66th st., last Saturday night, where a nice little dinner was served to ten other golfers by the Donovans. A grand time was had by all, and one of the guests submitted the following "poem," which looks to Ye Ed. like the poet was trying to get by without his feet, or at least his union card:

"THE HOLE IN ONE"
A Tragic Warning to Golfers
Ein Spasm in der Schoenste
Lengwich of Walt Whitman
Canto I

The time was late October—
To be more accurate, the thirteenth—
Of the year '24;
The weather ideal, neither too hot nor
Too cold.
A hazy, blue sky
Flecked with cirrhi
And enlivened
Ever and anon by the honk, honk
Of the wild goose and the more wild
Rum Runner.
(No doubt you've heard that one—
"Why is the goose wild?"
No?
Well, we'll hang that up and carry on with
The story.)
Enlivened, we said.
Ever, by the Rum One,
And anon by the honk, honk of the
Wild goose, that eftsoons passing
Over meadow lush (there's that durn tho't
Again) lush, and high sierra
With migrant swallow,
Would reach the sunny plains
Honduran,
Venezuelan,
Or the nest familial
'Midst fronds of wild grass waving
At foot of farthest
Andes.

II

A group
Of four square shooters
Teed up on rugged Oak Hills
Varied fairways:
Batter up—the cry
And an eager foursome trim
(Or about to be trimmed)
Seaworthy salts,
Each in proper sequence,
Assumed his stance,
Determined!
But none with prescience to know
That in their midst was one who
Preordained was fated
To win to heights immortal
That day at
Golf.

III

Mid varying fortunes on
They struggled,
Smoked and Swore.
When teeing off they sliced
To gorge unspeakable
Or topped the drive for yards
13!
Unspeakable,
You said it, also
Unprintable the lengwich
That flowed with glibbest fluency
From lips
Tobacco stained.

IV

A bunch of tough birds!
Brother,
Again
You said it!

V

Night had descended,
And on her bosom, lighted by the glow of
Pale Arcturus
Or mayhap Endymion—
"That wandering knight so fair"—
But, we digress and—well
Let that ride also while we Carry on!
The gloomy 3 hardby—
The pikers,
Immersed in thoughts splenetic,
Having no hiplikker,
Listened-in while our hero
Gibbous
Sought connection
Telephonic.

VI

Six-Four-One-Seven; the 'phone uttered its wail
Imperative!
Over the palpitating wire
Across the far-flung miles
Of prairie,
Wood and causeway,
Following the
Ribbon, dust-swept roadway;
By farmer's well-kept homes and
Others
Not so swell,
Rushing
On wings of lightning
O'er rivulets, ricks and
Rivers, and for good measure
A wild canal—maybe,
Up unpaved streets and alleys,
Over tree-tops, on whose
Atrophic branches the few
Last leaves of Autumn
Trembled against the coming of
The long, long Silence,
Tore a shriek triumphant—
Mother:
I shot a hole——when
Maledicite!
The connection
Busted and dissolved by voice
Buttinski—
Voice that yammered,
WHATNUMMERDIDYOUCALL?
Agonizingly, yet calmly, replied
OUR HERO,
Gimme
Yards Oh! Oh! 23!

Christmas Tree Worth More Than Small Cost

Are we justified in sacrificing some five million trees for the annual Christmas festival?

There has been much discussion in the past few years over this question of Christmas trees, in view of the rapid depletion of our forests and the increase in the waste land area.

There are those who stoutly contend that it is a foolish custom of pagan origin, not worthy of perpetuation in this enlightened Christian age, and that it is a senseless destruction of millions of young, thrifty trees that are so much needed to supply the timber requirements of the country.

But strangely enough, the foresters as a class, those who are most interested in conserving tree growth, do not share this concern about the Christmas tree. They are interested in growing trees and having them used for their highest good. If a ten year old tree, of which 2,000 or more can be grown upon a single acre, can give so much joy, what better use can be made of the trees?

The custom is so well established that it will never be wholly discarded, and why should it be? Is it not the Christmas tree that gives the setting for the celebration? What is more delightful to the children than the Christmas tree with its candles or electric lights, silver trimmings, tinsel and the other things that go with it? Take away the Christmas tree and you have removed the chief charm. It is the something that is eloquent of sentiment and that has a much higher value than the cost of the tree. It is not to be measured by economic considerations or commercial computations.—Frank Herbert Sweet.

Petitioning for Building of 87th St. Surface Car Line

The 87th st. Development association, headed by Dr. W. C. Brinkerhoff and others have petitioned the Illinois Commerce Commission, and we have no doubt they will accomplish what they go after.

They say that there is a necessity and demand for prompt building of the 87th st. car line from Cottage Grove ave. to the Eastern boundary of the Beverly Forest preserve at W. 87th and Robey sts. is unquestionable. Support of this necessity and demand is indicated by signatures of the Board of Education of the City of Chicago, the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Co., the Chicago and Western Indiana Railway Co., the County Board by Anton J. Cermak, pres., the South Chicago Chamber of Commerce, and numerous associations and industrial plants to the petition.

Ordinances were passed by the city council in 1916 (for 1917 construction) and accepted by the street railway companies. Hence the building of the 87th st. car line is long past due.

Englewood Post No. 61, the American Legion

The new executive committee for 1925 met at the office of the Commander Thursday evening, December 11th, to elect a chairman and transact business. The chairman elected was Past Commander C. R. Edrington.

Important changes recommended for ratification of the Post that the Post hold one regular meeting per month instead of two as has been the custom for years.

The executive committee will meet on regular meeting nights at 7:30, just preceding the Post meetings.

The regular meeting of the Post will be held on the first Friday of the month with the exception of Friday evening next, December 19th, at which time the regular meeting will be held as usual.

The banquet tickets for the Washington Birthday Annual are in the hands of Post members now and early report on all tickets has been asked for by the committee chairman. The motto this year is "Be On Time If ou Have to Start Ahead of Time."

A general revision of the Post constitution has been drafted and will be voted on by the membership Friday night, December 19th.

The Light of the Ages at Drexel Park

A pageant of song and acting will be the regular Christmas festivity of song at Drexel Park Presbyterian church, 6359 Marshfield, Sunday, December 21, at 7:45. The cast includes about 50 characters, very fine soloists taking the leading parts. The robes that will be used in the great Passion Play have been obtained for this event. A rare treat is promised to all who attend. The pageant is under the direction of Mrs. Kathryne Utesch, Miss Elva Layton will be at the organ.

HERE ARE TWO DAYS THAT SHOULD BE TAKEN FROM YOUR CALENDAR

WASHDAY and Tireday—Monday and Tuesday. Change the names to Reliefday and Restday. This laundry's proposition of doing your laundry for a few cents a pound for the washing, the ironing should make an instant appeal to you. It's cheaper than the old-fashioned ways and much more satisfactory. Peace of mind for a few cents a pound.

The Celebrated Herbalist

Office Entrance, Side Door

Office Hours, 8 A. M. to 7 P. M.

General Charles G. Dawes,
Evanston, Ill.

December 12, 1924.

Dear General and Mrs. Dawes:

It is with pleasure I write these lines to you, our great hero General of the World War, here and across the dark blue sea. We certainly feel proud of our Illinois man being our great Vice-President of our wonderful U. S. A. My husband and son and I send you our greatest congratulations, wishing you to remain our hero at the capitol for many a year. Never was it known to be such a victory for our great men as in this election. My platform was for you, a great hero of our Country, who devoted his life for all, here and across the sea. God sent you home safe to us to see you step forward again to give your time and devotion again to our people of every nationality in this beautiful U. S. A., along with our beloved President Coolidge, a great American who will do his duty for all like our deceased hero ex-President, Woodrow Wilson, who gave his life for his Country and its people. It's fine to think of the great victory you've won and the great men we have to rule our Country. May God spare you and our President to our Country and our people and may you remain many a year our great men of honor. May your footsteps all through life be health, wealth and prosperity.

Dedicated to
GEN. DAWES, VICE-PRESIDENT ELECT
A Hero in War and Peace

It was grand to hear the whistles blowing and the bells a-ringing like on a Christmas morning, and to hear our newsboys screaming, "Our victory is won."

It was great to hear the cheers from old and young. Three cheers for General Dawes and President Coolidge, they have won.

In smiles and in tears our hero went so brave to fight for you and me and Old Glory. In smiles and in tears our heroes said good-bye to mothers, wives, babies, sweethearts, sisters and brothers. "Some day we will return again to our Country and you, to make those that cried and missed us smile with pride and pleasure."

It was I that heard the bugle call and our heroes march away. The newsboys shouted, "We have won!" The cheers went up from old and young. Our boys are coming home.

It was wonderful to hear the bands a-playing and the bugle sounds on the eleventh of November, 1918.

And again they blew the bugle and the bands played over again, our hero has won again and is now our Vice-President, another victory for our General and me.

We are very truly yours,
MRS. BURD GRAY,
The Famous Herbalist,

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Let shining holly deck the walls,
Let Christmas candles shine.
Let mistletoe hang high above,
In your house and in mine;
Hang up the stockings by the fire,
The big ones and the small,
Let laughter ring, let children sing,
Be merry, one and all.

We wish our readers one and all a very Merry Christmas.

Truth may be mighty, but it is not very prevalent.

Love may be blind, but at this season of the year it has a very delicate touch.

The divorce of another woman interests most women as much as their own marriage.

If the average man knew himself would he be very proud of the acquaintance?

Oftentimes a man longs for tomorrow because he is ashamed of the things he did not do today.

You will be much more merry this Christmas if you help in making some one else happy. Try it.

We flash the old new gag again, that Christmas and New Year's do not fall on the same week days this year. See?

Wealth may not mean happiness, but you can't convince anyone of it until they have had a chance to try it out.

You may brighten up that same old "swear off" for use the coming New Year. It will be easier than making new ones, and probably do as well.

Strange, isn't it. The man who has never made a success of anything in his life, always wonders why other men do not heed his advice.

Wise parents who want their girl to marry a certain young man, may best secure that end by pretending that they do not want him for a son-in-law.

Between the taxis, trucks, and motor busses, the private cars have a hard time to find room enough to drive on the streets. It is almost compulsory to hire a taxi to get anywhere now.

In justice to Jerry Sullivan, who is the famed broadcaster, I want to say that he isn't the old guy that is responsible for this column. The only heathen that could make "Jerry" out of my name is Ray Bloundt, the original and only A. P. A. in Englewood.

Some one has suggested that an automobile driving class be formed in the public schools. A glance at the streets about our high school will show that most of the pupils now know how to drive, and some of them mighty recklessly.

A young Filipino saw in a newspaper an advertisement which read: "Wanted—a saxophone. Must be in good condition." Not long afterward a swarthy young chap called at the address and said to the advertiser: "I want to accept the position as a saxophone. I have never been a saxophone, but I think I can do it, and I am in good condition."

Death Calls a Cousin of Admiral Dewey

On December 6, at his home, 7030 Yale ave., there passed away Hiram L. Dewey at the age of 67.

Mr. Dewey was an old resident of Englewood having lived here for thirty years, twelve of them at 7130 Yale ave. He entered the service of the Rock Island as an engineer in 1879 and remained with them until 1892 when he went to the Northwestern, for which road he served until his retirement on pension in May, 1924, being the eldest man in the service. He was of the Vermont Deweys and was a first cousin of the Admiral whose victory at Manila made the United States an eastern power. He is survived by his widow and one son, Sylvester, of Crystal Lake, Ill. The funeral occurred Tuesday, December 9, from St. Carthage church.

Death of Charles H. Sterne

Mr. Charles H. Sterne, for many years a prominent resident of Hamilton Park, died at his home, 9167 Pleasant ave., December 3. Funeral was conducted by Cheval Bayard Commandery No. 52, K. T., at Lain's chapel, 63rd and Harvard, December 5. Interment was at Oak Woods.

Mr. Sterne was vice president of Sterne & Son company, brokers, having succeeded his father and grandfather in that line of business. He had a host of friends both personal and business, who will miss his passing on. Although ill for many months, he always wore a smile and bore his suffering bravely. He is survived by the widow, Helen Stucy Sterne, and three children, Charles, Virginia and George, also a sister, Mrs. Elsie Blackburn, all of whom have the sympathy of this community in their bereavement.

Death of Geo. L. Maynard

Geo. L. Maynard, for many years a resident of Englewood, passed away Sunday, December 14, after a long illness, at his home, 905 Grand ave., South San Francisco, Calif. Mr. Maynard was a son of the late Capt. Lyman P. Maynard, one of Englewood's first settlers. He is survived by a widow and son, also a brother, Stephen B. Maynard, of 436 64th st.

S. B. Maynard left last week for the home of his brother in South San Francisco.

An Apology to Contributors

An unexpected rush of advertising and copy at the last moment last week compelled us to withhold a number of important articles kindly sent us by contributors. They will be found in this issue. We are unable to add a page or two at the last moment, hence are sometimes forced to leave out really important matter.

Englewood Community Center

The Englewood Community Center enthusiastically announces that its fifth annual dance will be held on Sunday evening, January 18th, 1925, at the Midway Masonic Temple, 6115 Cottage Grove ave. A ten piece Benson Band, whose director is Mr. Ferdinand Steindel, has been obtained.

Preparations are taken care of by Mr. Harry Wolf and Miss Jeanette Eisenstein, chairman and co-chairman of the dance committee. They are capably assisted by Misses Rosalie Wolfson, Ida Markovitz, Lillian Kroll, Jessie Lewis, Frieda Colubock, Anita Shaw, Fay Fagenholz, Betty Flack, Minnie Goldman, and Messrs. Sam Witte, Joe Kimmelsman, Philip Pollack, Meyer Pollack and Morris Kroll. It is anticipated that this affair will be the largest in the club's history.

Criticism Little Good Without Suggested Remedy

The favorite indoor amusement at this time seems to be to criticise all constituted authority and rehash the tales of existing crime, but we fail to hear any really constructive suggestions as to how this state of affairs may be remedied. Any one reading the papers knows of the murders, outrages and general law violations, but where is the individual or organization that will come forward with a remedy for all of it, and put a stop to this saturnalia of crime? The authorities have a pleasant way of "passing the buck," as we say in Sunday school, from the police up to the courts, and they even hint that it is political influence that spares the criminal. Concerted action and honesty of effort to enforce the laws by all the powers would undoubtedly put a stop to the present reckless disregard of the laws. But it will take honesty of purpose and action of the national government, and the state and county, as well as by the city, to do it, and where is the Moses to lead us out of this bewildering wilderness of crime? Undoubtedly politics does play a big part in the administration of affairs. A politician is concerned only in one thing, and that is the success of his party by any means, fair or foul, and he does not hesitate to use every means at his command, no matter whether it is lawful or not. The rising generation are not fools, and the young fellows see politicians of prominence getting away with illegal stuff, and they follow in their idol's footsteps and rely upon their political higher-ups to get them out of their difficulties when arrested, and in most cases, they seem to have reckoned right, as a very small percentage of those arrested are even prosecuted and fewer still punished. Next to the indifferent legal authorities we think a great amount of crime may be attributed to the sentimentalists who are always overflowing with tears and kindness for the poor criminals, but never a thought do they give to the victims or the public. Then there is that peculiar bird we know as the successful criminal lawyer, who keeps a barrel of tears and a bale of alibis on tap for the criminal with money, and in most cases gets them by unpunished. All of these things are causes for crime, but we confess we are not wise enough to even suggest a remedy.

Extension of "L" and Surface Railway Lines

The trouble of this matter is that every real estate man (excuse us, "Realtor") that has an outside tract of land to put on the market, is exploiting an extension of either the surface or elevated lines in his own particular direction, with little consideration of the good of the general public. Good transportation will develop and build up any locality, but we must first provide for the inside districts already built up that have poor or no transportation. In our district we have unusually good facilities for reaching all other parts of the city, but there are some districts that are poorly provided, and the people in these districts should be given better transportation before the companies are asked to do any building of lines into the far away acreage tracts. We hear of real estate men who are selling far out property to innocent purchasers under the promise that "the street railway or the 'L' will be built out here next year." This is bunk pure and simple, and is misrepresentation. Under the present ordinance with the companies, we can not expect very extensive building very soon, and even the usually truthful realtors, under certain circumstances, have been known to lie, so purchasers should take some of these tales with a grain of salt.

Some Aldermanic Candidates

It is early in the season, but even now some mighty good timber is being urged for alderman of the 17th ward. We have heard of a number of new ones this week; Charley Shearman is being urged to run, as also Frank M. Fulton, and Fred Rolfe has been named. These, in addition to "Bob" Barbee and Frank Hollenback, give a choice lot of names to select from and the Democrats have not begun naming their candidates as yet. It is a good idea to canvass the names of candidates early that the people may know them well before the real campaign opens. It is pretty generally understood that Alderman McKinlay will not have much opposition in the 19th ward. Probably Alderman Ryan will succeed himself in the 16th. We need good, strong men the coming two years as the sewer question and extension of the elevated and surface railroads will occupy an important place on the city council docket, and we want to be sure that Englewood gets all that is coming to it. If you have a good candidate see that his name is brought out in time before all the voters are pledged.

New Police Captain in Englewood

Captain William J. Leibecke has been placed in charge of the Englewood police district, and already his influence is being felt in the rigid enforcement of all laws. He is making life a burden for the bootleggers and also for their protectors. The shady cigar store and poolroom may expect no leniency at his hands, and the patrolman who has been sneaking on protection to some friend engaged in law violation has a hard road to travel. Just as soon as the shoe pinches the political backers will do all they can to have Captain Leibecke removed, but it is hoped that all of the organizations that favor law and order will stand back of him, and ask that he be retained. Captain Leibecke knows how to combat the toughest class of law breakers and meets them with their own weapons. The wreckage he can make of a "speak easy" or bootlegging resort would make a western blizzard look like a spring zephyr.

Salem Evangelical Church to Build

The Salem Evangelical church, located at 6820 Emerald ave., have begun a campaign to raise a fund of $75,000 to erect a church building large enough for their ever increasing congregation. This congregation has been organized and been performing good work for over sixty years on the south side, first at 225 W. 25th st., and in 1912 they built a small chapel at their present location, since adding to it their Bible school building in 1920. E. J. Magerstadt is chairman of the campaign committee, and with his valuable assistants we have no doubt that another beautiful church will be added to the large number already located in Englewood.

Rainbow Ice Cream Co. Held Up for $1,200

Walter McCoy, the genial president of the Rainbow Ice Cream Co., was quite happy Monday morning as he unlocked the office about 8 o'clock, as he knew he had the $1,200 he was to use that morning in meeting an obligation of this prosperous young concern at 809 W. 58th st. He was seated at his desk when two young men, both armed with automatics, thrust them in his face and compelled him to surrender the nice big fat roll of bills he had reserved for other purposes. As he was alone in the office and no one within call, discretion was the better part of valor so he made no outcry. They at first threatened to leave him locked in the vault, but he persuaded them to leave him in the locked office and as soon as they were gone he scunded the alarm, but they had made their getaway perfect and no trace could be discovered when the police arrived. Walter gave very complete descriptions of the men and the flying squads of the police have been making diligent search for them. When the employes in the factory saw their president jumping from an office window, it was their first knowledge that anything was wrong in the front office, and as this part of the town is well traveled, none of the neighbors distinguished the robbers from innocent passersby.

"Uncle Stephen" Francis Very Ill

"Uncle" Stephen Francis, the oldest member of George G. Meade post, G. A. R., and a veteran Englewood business man, is dangerously ill at his home, 6311 Eggleston ave. Mr. Francis is the father of John W. Francis of 6414 Yale ave. and former proprietor of the Englewood Fair, one of the big business institutions of Englewood a generation ago, and "Uncle Steve," as he was known to everyone, was manager of the Fair. He is in his 93rd year and up to a few days ago was hale and hearty, and managed to attend every function of the G. A. R., of which he is a most enthusiastic member. Although not as yet out of danger, Mr. Francis is very much improved in health from his condition the early part of the week. His many friends will hope for his recovery and that he may be spared for many years.

Although London is less than six hundred miles from Berlin, a telephone conversation between the German and British capitals will be made possible soon for the first time.
